THOUSANDS GREET BRYAN

A Magnificent Demonstration In Honor of Free Silver's Champion.

CHEERING ENTHUSIASTS GATHER AT THE DEPOT

And Welcome the Democratic Standard Bearer and Hope of the Masses—Vantage Gained Early and the People Manifest Their Interest by Standing in the Boiling Hot Sun Waiting For the Train—Reception Committee and Citizens Meet the Train at Orrville—Mr. Bryan's Speech.

From Monday's Daily.

There were a few silver-tinted clouds floating in the sky this morning and the expectant populace who were partially awaiting the arrival of the people's champion were expressions of fear, lest small specks might develop into huge black banks and spoil the day's success. The silver edges, however, augured no ill, and as the day advanced the sky became clearer and clearer until not a dot marred the purity of its expanse. The rumbling of farm wagons was early heard upon the streets, and gave evidence of the gathering of the agricultural clans.

The morning trains carried many passengers to the city, all bent on looking upon the features of the man whom they expect to raise them from their present depressed condition, and to listen to his many words of hope and encouragement. The local committees were astir and nothing was left undone to make the reception, however short it might be, a most enthusiastic one.

A big delegation arrived on the C. C. & S. morning train from Zanesville and Coshocton. It was composed of prominent business men and many Republicans were in the delegation, who were here to see the leader of the cause they now espoused. The following men were in the Coshocton party:

Vincent Ferguson, ex-county commissioner; Samuel Dawson, deputy county treasurer; W. H. McCabe, postmaster and publisher of Democratic Standard; A. J. Miller, ex-county sheriff; Samuel

The Sixth Ward Bryan Silver Club, gaily bedecked in handsome red ribbon, with the club name in prominent silver letters, cut a big figure in the line and evoked much applause along the line of march.

When the parade turned into Cherry street it was badly hampered by carriages, wagons and every conceivable form of vehicle from the stylish trap to the lumbering hay wagon, which filled the street from curb to curb. The platoon of police, magnificent in their blue uniforms, and white helmets, made a fine appearance and they worked like Trojans at the depot to keep the thousands of citizens in control. The crowd exceeded the wildest estimates in point of numbers.

MRS. W. J. BRYAN.

and 8,000 is a conservative figure at which the number can be placed. The great mass of sweltering humanity crowded on box cars and flooded everything in sight. The platform was covered and surrounding territory for several blocks was one sea of faces and everywhere an expression of expectant pleasure was noted.

The big Thayer band occupied a big flat car. The car was also used by the reporters.

Standing upon a car of coal in the rear of the speakers' car, and high up where all could see it, was a huge banner, upon which was the following words in plain type: "Billy Bryan: The future honor and integrity of the nation must be preserved." Underneath these words was a handsome portrait of Major McKinley, and then: "We will rally to the support of our dear old comrade," and then the name of an utterly unknown organization: "The Union Veteran and Patriotic League of Canton," was attached. The placing of such an inscription at such a time and place was in the worst taste so often exhibited by the coteries of narrow-minded local fellows who pose for politicians, but succeed in doing nothing but showing their flagrant assiduity. When the train bearing the "Boy Orator of the Plate" came puffing into the station, the vast assemblage arose on tip-toe and with a wave of handkerchiefs, umbrellas and hats, a mighty shout went up, and the crowds surged toward the rear platform like one great tidal wave.

At the same time a rush was made for the offensive banner and in less time than it takes to indite these lines, it was torn to shreds and the fragments were scattered to the free winds of heaven. The frame upon which the canvas was stretched was broken into splinters, and hurled into space. A fat youth who stood guard over the banner, seized a chunk of coal from the car and threw it at one of the men, who assisted in destroying the banner. He was quickly placed hors de combat by a stiff punch in the stomach, however, and all was again serene.

A young man with the fresh blood of liberty coursing through his veins and who was one of the first to tear the indelible utterance from its pedestal, grabbed a shred of the canvas and presented it to Mrs. Bryan, who occupied the car with her husband. The handsome distinguished woman, of course, did not understand what it was, but accepted the rag with a bow. The youth had scarcely stepped from the car when a stylishly dressed young lady stepped forward and presented Mr. and Mrs. Bryan with a large bunch of sweet-scented tea roses, sweet peas, mignonettes and other beautiful flowers. The lady said, in a sweet voice, that all the flowers that grow in Canton are not for Mr. McKinley. She received the gracious smile and thanks of the coming lady of the White House, and then she disappeared in the crowd.

When the train hove in sight down by the Antlawn works, the crowd set up a cheer and the band struck up the "American Guard," to the tune of "America," which was drowned by the cheers from thousands of throats. It was necessary to switch the car, upon which Mr. Bryan was standing, and while that was being done, the party quietly got onto a flat car, where the band was stationed.

As the crowd caught sight of Mr. Bryan the cheers that went up were deafening, clearly showing the sentiment that prevails in Canton and vicinity.

Mayor James A. Rice, chairman of the reception committee, introduced Mr. Bryan as the man who represents the American people better than any man who ever became a candidate for the presidency.

Mr. Bryan was greeted with wild cheering. Hats were thrown in the air and for a time the people forgot, in their enthusiasm, that he could remain but a short time. Mr. Bryan held up his hand, and the crowd remembered that his stay must be brief. Mr. Bryan, when the cheering had ceased, said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—I am pleased to be here with you and greet you. I was informed, some time since, that a Bryan Silver Club had been formed here, but little imagined, when I left my western home, how tremendous the sentiment here was. I am glad, at the home of my distinguished opponent, to testify to his high character and personal worth, and I shall be satisfied if, as a private individual, I may stand beside him in public esteem. But this is not a contest between persons. It matters little, as individuals, which of us occupies the great office for which this contest is now going on. It does matter, however, for what policies the President of the United States shall stand. Individuality and persons are lost sight of in the cause for which they stand, and which they represent. In my own city there are many people who believe that the election of your fellow-townsmen will be to their interest, and I am glad to know that in his home there are so many who believe that their interests will be best subserved by his defeat. You are his neighbors, as the word neighbor is commonly used. If you will look into the Scriptures, you will find what a true neighbor is. I am your neighbor. I am the neighbor of those who have fallen among thieves. In my judgment, at this time, when we are cursed by a ruinous European financial policy, the true neighbor is the man who favors the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver, at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation. To my neighbors at home I say that if, according to their convictions of public duty, they feel that they should support my opponent, I bear them no ill will. I have so high a regard for my opponent that I know he wants all of you to vote your convictions of what you believe is right and for the best interests of all the people, even though by so doing you keep him here among you, as a citizen. I thank you and will bid you good-day."

Mr. Bryan was heartily cheered and the crowd surged forward to shake his hand. The people were so densely packed in that this was found to be impossible, and fraught with much danger, owing to the surroundings. With the true instinct of a friend of the people, Mr. Bryan desisted, and thereby saved a great crush that might have resulted seriously to those caught in it.

Mayor Rice again called for attention, and introduced Mrs. Bryan, who was given a hearty cheer as a welcome, which she smilingly acknowledged with a modest bow.

The train pulled out soon after, followed by the cheers of the thousands who had assembled, and who wished Mr. Bryan and his party God-speed.

UNION VETERAN LEGION.

Officers That Hasten to Insist That They Discountenance That Banner Displayed at the Depot.

We desire to state that the banner exhibited at the Bryan meeting Monday was not authorized by us and we desire to further state that we consider the act of using a name so similar to our own as a grave breach of etiquette and an unwarranted reflection upon the integrity, honesty and good sense of the membership of our order.

WATCH RECOVERED.

Officer Rohn Accompanies a Stranger to a Resort and Secures His Time-piece That Was Stolen.

Officer Rohn, who is doing duty on the public square, was last evening approached by a well-dressed stranger, who gave him the name of C. L. Zank. The stranger stated that his gold watch had been stolen from him in an East End resort, but could not locate the place. Officer Rohn accompanied the man and in a short time found the watch and restored it to its owner. The stranger did not wish to appear in court, so no arrests were made.

CZAR'S MIND PROBABLY WEAK.

Reported Summons of a German Expert to the Russian Capital.

BURLIN, Aug. 8.—Prof. Mendall, the specialist in mental diseases, is reported by the Vorwarts to have gone to St. Petersburg, whither he was summoned by the Russian government.

The Vorwarts, as the leading socialist organ of Germany, is not very good authority for the inside news of European royalties' affairs, but in this case its information chimes well with hazy but persistent reports that have reached the outside world from the Russian capital.

If the report of Prof. Mendall's visit is true he has probably been summoned to consult about the young czar, who has several times been the subject of unpleasant rumors as to his mental condition. One story declared that he was the prey of acute melancholia, and it was said that it was due in great part to the terrible tragedy on the field, whereby thousands of Russians lost their lives.

GEORGIA POPULISTS' ACTION.

They Make Provision Should Sewall Withdraw.

ATLANTA, Aug. 8.—The Populist state convention fulfilled the prediction as to its action on the national ticket made by Thomas E. Watson in his address by unanimously adopting a resolution presented by the platform committee authorizing the state executive committee at any time that Arthur Sewall should be withdrawn from the Democratic ticket to withdraw six Populist electors and place six Democrats in their stead. This done, the convention adjourned sine die.

Hon. Zaborn A. Wright was made the convention's nominee for governor.

Fusion Ticket Went Through.

HITCHCOCK, Kan., Aug. 8.—A dozen men representing the remnants of the Kansas state Democratic convention assembled and nominated the state ticket selected at the Populist convention at Abilene. When the names were read from a telegram, they were taken down by Secretary Popperell and at once declared the nominees of the Democrats, without discussion or remarks. The Populists adopted the Democratic electoral ticket.

A World's Record Broken.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 8.—John R. Gentry, the pacing stallion, has gone a mile to beat his own record of 2:03½ and succeeded in clipping off a quarter of a second and establishing a new world's record, 2:03¼. Had the track been as fast as on Thursday it is believed Gentry would have paced a mile in better than 2:02.

Man and Woman Murdered.
